St Thomas CE (vc) Primary Reading and Book Spine

Rational

This document is intended to support the progress of whole class quality reading across the school as well as offer a range of inspiring picture books that work well for T4W and books that link well to our topics. I have audited the books we already have as class sets (15+ books) for in school and added a few more titles to the range of recommended reads from many sources carefully researched. You may well find that some of the books you have used and loved have been moved into other year groups and some new and unknown books have been added. This is to ensure progression in reading as we need to ensure year groups are reading books that build on the ones read the previous year in both complexity and language.

I found we already had in school a number of books that linked well to our topic areas but we must ensure that they work well as readers also and some topics just have a very limited selection of related texts. However, I also appreciate that the linking of texts for some topics could be powerful and useful to showcase a depth and breadth of knowledge and text formats so I have attempted to link these to the topic areas in most cases. In the year that the book doesn't match the topic, it is expected the that the book should be read anyway as it will either link to work done the previous year or work to be done in the following year.

We have endeavoured to provide a reading spine that has a range of age appropriate yet challenging books that span both modern and classic books, from texts where there is a complex narrative to texts with figurative and symbolic story plots. We also want to ensure that the books we read diverse in both their authors and characters as well as ensuring all our children are exposed to a range of books across a wide selection of genres. You will notice that there are 4/5 'chapter books' provided for each year group as well as selection of topic related books, non-fiction and poetry. The picture books relating to T4W are well recommended and where they span year groups (e.g. Journey, Quest, Return – it is important they are covered).

A wide selection of these genres should be covered over the year in reading, writing and topic work. There is also the opportunity to add in a set of books that you enjoy as a teacher. Be careful with your selection- look at future planning when you might not be in that year group and make sure that the book has longevity. If not, Books Plus 'lend out' class sets of books which may be worth looking into and if buy a class set look out for books that are new, are diverse and would be picked up and enjoyed by future teachers and classes.

Don't forget reading should also include songs, newspapers, comic books, diary entries, short pieces, scripts, short videos etc- sometimes these might work better if focusing on a particular skills or comprehension strand.
